

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 143 1/2. Cotton declined; closed in New York yesterday at 22c. For middling uplands...

A base-ball team in Canisteo, N. Y., has made a record of 21 hits. The Lynchburg Radical Record is to be commenced September 28th.

Jarvis's race-horse Kentucky is to be immortalized in bronze by MACDONALD, the sculptor. The 7th Republic is the title of an American newspaper published in the City of Mexico.

The Milwaukee pork-packer, who put up salt and sand so nicely, has been packed off to the State prison for three years. In Trieste, if a cholera patient does not call in medical attendance he is imprisoned for six months, in case he lives so long.

The lawyers of Troy have challenged all the editors and printers to dispute the question of championship at a game of base ball. Phillip's Bar is regarded the worst on the Mississippi River in retarding navigation. It is situated between Memphis and Cairo, with scarce a foot of water on it.

It is the opinion of the Norfolk journals that a large majority of the white voters of Virginia have made up their minds to get back into the Union by the shortest road.

England uses eight hundred and fifty millions postage stamps annually. Franco four hundred and fifty millions, and the United States three hundred and fifty million.

A witness spoke of a particular person as having seen him "partially clad." "Was he not quite naked?" asked the examining counsel. "I replied the witness, "I saw a pair of spectacles."

We learn from a Richmond paper that a Stone Mountain Brigade named has marched 36,243 miles during the war. This would be somewhere in the neighborhood of twenty miles a day. The fraction completes the calculation.

A man driving an ox-cart in New London, Conn., fell under the wheel, which passed over him. He lay on the ground and shouted "whoa" so much that the oxen not only stopped, but backed the cart over him again.

In some of the Scotch fisheries it is announced that the fishing boats have been introduced. The object of the promoters of this new plan is to send deep sea fish to the markets of the day during which they are taken.

The Governor of California was not a war Democrat, as alleged. He was a Republican, but left the party during the war and joined the Democracy, because of his detestation of the man...

Droz and Krasner, who met at Philadelphia at Montreal on the 25th for the championship of the dominion. In a practice game with his brother the other night Droz made, besides a run of four hundred, three consecutive runs of 286, 101, and 304.

"I say, Sambo, does you know what makes do corn grow so fast when you put do manure on it?" "No, I don't, hardly." "Now, I'll just tell ye. When do corn begins to smell do manure, it don't like do tumory, so it hurries out do ground."

Geo. Phillips, who "was railing out with his 'Gazette' as usual," was assaulted by three men near Fairfaxville, Va., who attempted violence upon the person of the lady, has settled with the guilty parties on the payment of twelve dollars.

A northern man, says the Valley Virginian, who recently emigrated to Jefferson county, in lower Va., made 1500 pounds of honey from fifty bee stands last Summer, which he sold for $400. Our farmers should profit by his Yankee example.

They insure everything in Hartford, from your own life to that of your dog, or the steam boiler that heats your house. Approve of the recent rainy season, one of the Insurance Presidents was asked, "Why don't you start a company to insure against a deluge?" "That was the first charter ever granted," was the quick reply.

The relations of Prussia and Italy, which were supposed a short time since to be of a very delicate character, are said to have assumed a new aspect. Count Bismarck is represented to have offered large sums of money to the Italian Government, and promised to assist the latter if it should think fit to make a census bill of the population taken by France in Rome.

The investigations before a Justice of Hanover county, establishes the fact that there is in that county an organization known as the "Rising Sons of Liberty," the members of which have been in the habit of drinking and eating in the homes of the widows of whom there were fifty, white and black, and has been writing, and who has been furnished a German Schofield.

Dates from Australasia to the 8th of August are received. General LATROUSE, the new American Consul at Melbourne, had arrived. Eight persons were drowned on a prize fight excursion near Darwin on the 10th of July. The New South Wales Parliament assembled on the 24 of June. Preparations were being made for the reception of Prince ALBERT. At Sydney Heads even men were drowned while trying to reach a ship which wanted a pick.

The registration of voters at San Francisco, up to August 30, was 21,964 males; viz, 11,826 native born, and 10,688 foreign. The home distribution showed 4639 natives of the New England States, 3264 natives of New York, 931 of Pennsylvania, 1199 of other Northern States, 1244 of Southern States, 13 natives of Alabama, and 2 of Oregon. To the foreign element, Ireland furnished 3306, England and Scotland 1066, Germany 3082, France 160, Mexico 5.

The St. Louis Republican says that the wages of employees are now generally going down, as will be witnessed by the following schedule, furnished by well known and deeply interested parties. It says: Captain, per month, $200; pilots, each, $200; mates, $150 and $75; engineers, $280; mates, $100 and $60; watchman, $40; steward, $35; cook house, $125; cabin boys, $15 to $25; carpenter, $75. This will be noticed as a most remarkable falling off from the wages paid but a short time since.

A violent baraque was delivered at the Tabernacle in Salt Lake, on the 8th instant. Brother SLOAN, editor of the Desert News, and his wife, were the principal speakers. The Rev. J. W. HARRIS, who had a polygamist, and who would continue to violate the laws of Congress prohibiting polygamy. He denounced the government as tyrannical and unjust, and as having no right to make laws for the saints. Elder KIMBALL, following, approving the sentiments uttered by SLOAN. He had seventy children, and calculated that in fifty years the KIMBALL family would outnumber the present aggregate of saints.

The Hartford Post relates a curious incident near that city. Mrs. ELIZA BARNES, a young widow, had been courted and won by a young lawyer from Providence, who spent his vacation in that neighborhood. The day for the marriage was fixed, and all the arrangements made, but at the appointed hour the bridegroom came not. He had fled from the town in an early train. The bride was disconsolate, the friends outraged. Worse than all, the dinner was spoiled by waiting. Seeing this state of affairs, one of the invited guests, a middle-aged farmer, who had been a secret admirer of Mrs. BARNES, and whom she had encouraged to take the groom's place, and was as good as married to her, stepped in, and was accepted. They were a happy couple.

A correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch writes from Lexington, Va., September 21: The town is again crowded with students, nearly all of the States being represented. All are busy making preparations for the session which has just begun. Washington College opened on Thursday. Four hundred students matriculated, and a large number have arrived since. Now there are over five hundred here, and more still expected. General R. E. LEE has entered upon his duties, having recovered from his late attack, but is still feeble. Nearly all of the professors are new. There are at the Virginia Military Institute about two hundred and sixty cadets. The Institute buildings were not entirely rebuilt, but from present appearances will be finished by next spring.

Great excitement was occasioned in Petersburg, Va., Saturday, by the arrest in Chesterfield and the bringing into town of a party of negro highwaymen, who were captured by a party of their own color, aided by a policeman, while in the act of committing a robbery upon a colored man traveling in a buggy. The Express says: "On the way there the crowd of colored men made several attempts to ill use the prisoners, and were only prevented by the strenuous efforts of the officers. The greatest excitement prevailed in the streets, and on the morning street, and in the Court House yard the attack upon the prisoners was renewed by the colored crowd, but Mayor COLLIER having ordered the crowd to disperse, under the threat of calling out the military, the officers succeeded in getting the robbers safely secured in jail without injury. By the exertions of the colored citizens, aided by the officers, two more were captured in the evening.

CURRENT TOPICS.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is the theme of all the papers, and it is instructive to notice the varying complexion of their views of the case. Thus, in a leading article in the Outlook of Political Affairs, the Advocate says: "The actions of President JOHNSON are clearly and flagrantly revolutionary, and they prove him to be capable of the worst forms of treason—the betrayal of the highest public trust, and the attempt to subvert for selfish purposes the government that he is set to protect and enforce. However reluctantly we may accept this conviction, the fact that we have at the head of the nation a mad, dogged and unscrupulous, violent in temper, and coarse in menial and moral composition. * * * First, under God, we trust in the integrity of the people. * * * Next, we have confidence in the army and its incorruptible general-in-chief. A revolution such as President JOHNSON is attempting cannot be carried out without military force, and the army of the United States, commanded by Grant, will not allow itself to be used for such a purpose. The Independent writes: "It is long article devoted to the public mind. Its writer says: 'We beg to inform our friends that the nation was long ago, and is now, abundantly ready for the impeachment of the President. The people are waiting anxiously, with an almost impatient anxiety. In the Republican party, not only a Radical wing, but a large part of the Conservative, are at last united in demanding the removal of the only remaining hindrance to reconstruction; and that is, the President.' And the New York Tribune, in a decided stand in politics, and says of the President's last proclamation: 'We from the first have been in favor of a universal amnesty, and of leaving the question of suffrage and eligibility to the States, after their restoration, where, under the Constitution, it belongs. But the President himself took a different course, and it is too late now to take this course now, and any attempt to do it in our judgment, only makes matters worse, and perhaps leads to a collision between the Executive and Congress. The President can effect nothing but he sets aside the reconstruction acts of Congress as null and void, and uses the army to prevent the reassembling of Congress, or to disperse it when reassembled. Should he attempt this, civil war would be renewed, in case the army obeyed him, and the end, whatever it might be, would be most disastrous to the republic.'

Mr. LONGFELLOW and his critics, MATTHEW ARNO and his poems, and the Catholic Church and modern civilization, are all "reviewed" by the Nation. We are told that: "Mr. LONGFELLOW has made a translation which is not only good, but faithful, but is the most perfect of any yet published. The Nation is silent on the subject of the 'Divine Comedy.' Mr. ARNO's criticism says: 'Although comedy is a form of verse written now-days far greater than at any previous time, no one will be ready to assert that there is a proportionate increase of true poetry. The faculty of verse-writing and of expressing thought, sentiment, or emotion in poetic form, becomes more common with the increase of general culture. But culture, though servicable to genius, is not productive of it, and the faculty of culture may be abundantly fertile in excellent verse which is, and remains, barren of the poetry that has permanent, absolute, and universal worth. The dangers of the Republican party are considered by the Nation, and we are told: "The result of the elections in Maine and California conveys one or two lessons which, we feel satisfied that what occurred at the Massachusetts Convention, the Republican party will take to heart. One is the danger of relying too much on party discipline, or even the goodness of the principle of the party, which the other is the danger of depending too much of the Puritan spirit into politics. Also, that 'Puritanism has had a noble history, and has accomplished marvelous results. It is through and through heroic and self-sacrificing, even when it has wandered furthest from the perfect law of liberty. Its career in the future may be as glorious as in the past if it will free itself from its bad tendencies, will learn that liberty of thought is as sacred as emancipation of the body, and that legal restraints should have nothing to do with moral acts. It is hardly necessary to say that we should make the application of all this to the attempts which are being made in Massachusetts and Maine to enforce by law a standard of private morals for which, no matter how it may be, the community is evidently not prepared.'

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Tribune says that MAXIMILIAN's body is kept on exhibition in Queretaro, in a dirty second-story room. A soldier guards the door, but admits all who will pay the admission fee. He says the coffin stood in the center of the room, resting upon a couple of rude wood benches. It is covered with black cloth, adorned with a cheap quality of gold lace, the top of which has a false cover of gold, opening which reveals the remains. Through the window of the room, the ill-fated Austrian was shown by the aid of a pony tallow candle kept by the soldier for visitors use. The Emperor was dressed in a suit composed of a blue coat with a row of brass buttons in front, dark blue pants with heavy brass buttons. His hands were covered with a pair of white gloves, very much soiled. His mouth and eyes were partially open, plainly showing his teeth and the color of his eyes. His beard is quite gone, as well as the greater part of his hair, which, I am informed, has been cut off by Dr. ARNO, who had charge of the embalming, and sold, his receiving as high as five cents—$80—for small locks of the same. The body of the Emperor remained at Liza's house until last week, when it was removed to its present location, during which time he made use of it as a means of speculation. He also disposed of whatever effects belonged to MAXIMILIAN he could obtain, and charging large sums for small pieces of his blood-stained garments, which he cut up and sold. It is also alleged that he has even removed small portions of the skull, for which he obtained a large sum, replacing it with wood. I cannot vouch for this, but it has general belief here.

CHARLES H. SWETSER, of New York, appears to be one of those men who have sufficient energy and "push" to start an enterprise, but are lacking in "bottom" to hold out and patiently continue in carrying on a business after it has failed. The Evening Mail, a paper published in the Round Table a little over two years ago, and after it was in successful operation he retired from it, and entered into the publication of a new evening paper, the Evening Gazette, which last week we find he sold to Mr. S. J. ARDEN, his associate, and the manager of the Gazette. We are of course unable to say whether the Gazette was remunerative or not, or to surmise what induced Mr. SWETSER, immediately upon his withdrawal from the Gazette to commence a new evening paper, the Evening Mail. The name of the paper is a premier pas towards, or "à la manière de Schiller," does not appear to be borne out by his experience. The beginning seems easy enough, and his starting papers his special forte. The Evening Mail, like the Evening Gazette, is a very handsomely printed paper, edited with taste, and a pleasant afternoon companion to readers of taste. The announcement: "To the Public" is curiously worded: "The subscriber has sold his interest in the Evening Gazette to Mr. S. J. ARDEN, who has the honor to have made under circumstances which have led to the immediate resumption of the field by the subscriber. Old advertisers and friends are respectfully invited to 'fall into the ranks of the Evening Mail, which is the Gazette in new form.'

THE ROUND TABLE, writing of the two great German statesmen, Bismarck and Von BRETZ, says: "Germany so rarely has a really great statesman that they ought to thank the fate which has given them two at once. Practical statesmanship is a field upon which the studious, philosophical German mind seldom ventures. * * * But, as we said at the opening of this article, great statesmen are very rare in German history, and it is well to note where concedes to both Bismarck and Von BRETZ a place among the few. We may look with marked favor or dislike upon the course pursued by either, approve or disapprove of their respective policies, but we cannot deny them great ability." After sketching the work of each, the article concludes as follows: "Thus, while the one in the North, by the employment of iron and blood, has laid the foundation of a new empire, and has aroused to full wakefulness and activity the dormant aspirations of an otherwise slow and rather passive people, the other, by his moderate, but persistent policy, has effected an empire from liberal principles, and is re-creating it for possibly as eventful a history in the future as were the many centuries of its past."

THE REV. C. D. FOSS gives an account of his "Religious Impressions Abroad," and after having heard Rev. Mr. STROMBORN preach, sums him up as follows: "The chief elements of Mr. STROMBORN's power, I think, are these: 1. A magnificent voice. 2. Amazing fluency in the use of Satan word. 3. Unparalleled facility of terse illustration. 4. Dramatic power in the use of the A. Ten-man power of word. May God grant him long to live and preach the Gospel he preaches and lives so well."

LARGEST CIRCULATION.—The DAILY NEWS publishes the Official List of Letters remaining in the Postoffice at the end of each week, agreeably to the following section of the New Postoffice Law, as the newspaper having the largest circulation in the City of Charleston.

Section 5. And be it further enacted, That lists of letters remaining unclaimed for in any Postoffice in any city, town or village, where a newspaper, shall be prepared, shall hereafter be published once only in the newspaper which, being published weekly or otherwise, shall have the largest circulation within range of delivery of the said Postoffice. Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That lists of letters remaining unclaimed for in any Postoffice in any city, town or village, where a newspaper, shall be prepared, shall hereafter be published once only in the newspaper which, being published weekly or otherwise, shall have the largest circulation within range of delivery of the said Postoffice.

All communications intended for publication in this journal must be addressed to the Editor of the Daily News, No. 18 Hayne-street, Charleston, S. C. Business Communications to Publishers of Daily News. We cannot undertake to return rejected communications. Advertisements outside of the city must be accompanied with the cash.

CHARLESTON.

THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 26, 1867.

JOE WORK.—We have now completed our office so as to execute, in the shortest possible time, ALL KINDS OF JOB WORK, and we most respectfully ask the patronage of our friends.

THE MAIN QUESTION.

Under the above heading the New York Tribune recently said: "Shall four millions of our countrymen be henceforth serfs and outcasts in the land of their birth, with their descendants through all generations? Such is the great question remaining to be solved by the judgment and votes of the American people." The Tribune understands that passions must be appealed to in order to be successful in the approaching elections. It remembers how successful were the slanders and falsehoods uttered against the South, in strengthening the Radical party, in the elections of the last year, and it feels that the life of the party will be lost, unless the minds of men can be excited by some imaginary evil. Every reader of the Tribune knows that there is no slier organ of the party, on either side, than is that paper, and it sees clearly the weakness of the party in power. If a false issue can be made, the party may be saved, and this issue the Tribune seeks to make. It sees tariff questions agitating the party. It knows that Sunday laws and liquor laws are questions on which the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces, and in falling it will drag down with it the Republic. The Tribune understands that the party will be divided, and the formidable question of the United States debt looms up before it as a rock, on which the party must eventually split. Mr. GREENEY and his coadjutors are too shrewd and able as politicians, not to know that man will seize upon living issues, and that no party can be kept long together after it has accomplished its work. The Radical party was organized for the purpose of preventing the extension of slavery, and later in its career it stood on the ground of general emancipation of the slaves of the South. In this they succeeded, and unless the party take a step in advance, it must fall to pieces,